Re: Daniel Quinn

To Whom It May Concern:

It is with much regret that I find myself writing this letter, as it means that Daniel is departing Rydium and leaving a large void in our organisation.

Daniel has been with Rydium for two and a half years and in that time I have seen his skills as a programmer increase ten fold. One of Daniel's many accomplishments while he was with Rydium was taking on the role of network administrator. In this role he set up firewalls for multiple networks, Mail server, DNS servers and managed many web and data base servers. In this role he was nothing but a success.

Besides Daniel's technical skills, the company will also miss his ability to organize his co-works for social events. Whether it was a lunch trip to the local greasy spoon or a movie night in the company board room, Daniel was always the leader.

Based on Daniel's ability to take on and excel at any challenge he faces and his very strong interpersonal skills. I know that Daniel has the ability to be a very strong manager one day in the very near future.

I wish him the best of luck, he will be missed.

Sincerely,
